LOOKING FOR TRAINED EMPLOYEES WHO ARE READY TO WORK?

The California Prison Industry Authority (CALPIA) is hosting the 2015 Employer Forum. CALPIA trains approximately 8,000 offenders per year in service, manufacturing, and agricultural industries in California's penal institutions. CALPIA is self-supporting and sells over 1,500 different products to tax supported agencies. Our most important product is a skilled worker who does not return to prison.

CALPIA and the California Department of Corrections and Rehabilitation (CDCR) partner with the California Sheriff's Departments in their effort to rehabilitate offenders at the local level. Post-prison realignment, the Alameda County Sheriff's Office has demonstrated its leadership and expertise in the rehabilitation of county level offenders, creating an additional pool of trained workers available for hire.
